Aspiring Reporters, Editors & Producers to Get ‘Red Carpet’ Treatment as Torrance Community Television Hosts Open House

Torrance, Calif., Oct. 7, 2015 — The City of Torrance’s multi-million dollar community television facility will host a five-hour open house for City residents and non-profit organizations Saturday, Oct. 10, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Hosted by the City of Torrance’s Cable Television Advisory Board, the Torrance Community Television (TCtv) event will be held at the TCtv Studio, 3350 Civic Center Drive, to officially recognize its conversion from standard television equipment to high definition equipment. “This conversion has been a year in the making, and now gives us the capability to offer the Torrance community, including aspiring reporters, editors and producers, the latest in television recording and editing technology,” said Lynn Brennan, chairwoman, City of Torrance Cable Television Advisory Board. Several city officials are expected to be on hand at a ribbon cutting ceremony scheduled for 11 a.m.

TCtv provides the equipment, facilities, training and support — at no charge — to Torrance residents who want to produce and cablecast their own television shows. TCtv facilities include a broadcast-quality, high-definition TV studio; Avid post-production systems; professional digital audio recording and editing; and high-definition field cameras. Saturday’s Open House will feature studio tours; an opportunity to meet with television producers; and information about TCtv’s ongoing workshops, classes and volunteer activities. Admission is free-of-charge.

TCtv is a public access cable channel established in 1985. It is available in the Torrance area on Time Warner Cable channel 28 and Verizon FiOS channel 36.
